

Think Big - Start Small - Scale Fast

CellExchange earns place on Washington Technology's 2007 Fast 50

Cambridge, MA, September 27, 2007 – CellExchange has been ranked number thirty-four in the "2007 Fast 50 Government Contractors" September 17, 2007, issue of the Washington Technology News. To be considered, top companies submitted five years of revenue data and were then compared by an annual growth rate. CellExchange has experienced an annual growth rate of over seventy percent since 2002.

Krish Nangegadda, CellExchange's President says, "Just being on the list is recognition of the great strides we have made in the federal marketplace over the past five years." The company holds major contracts with the Air Force and Navy and we are on track to maintain CellExchange's growth by supporting its defense and civilian agency customers in their large and complex systems development and integration efforts.

About Washington Technology

Washington Technology is a print and online publication out of the National Capital, focused on delivering technology and business news to the government and government contractors.

About CellExchange

Founded in 2000, CellExchange is a Cambridge, MA, based enterprise systems developer. The Company emphasizes standards-compliant architectures and technologies and uses a disciplined process to deliver and integrate its systems rapidly. CellExchange's rapid delivery enables visible progress, predictability, innovation, and lower total cost. CellExchange is an active member of the SOA Consortium and Homeland Security and Defense Business Council. For more information, visit www.cellexchange.com.